

YOUTH RED CROSS

Jagannath University
DELHI NCR | BAHADURGARH

The Youth Red Cross (YRC) is the student wing of the Indian Red Cross Society, established with the noble objective of engaging young people in humanitarian service. It provides a platform for students to contribute towards the welfare of society while developing leadership, discipline, and a spirit of voluntary service. It is a voluntary humanitarian organization that aims to inspire, encourage, and initiate young people to engage in selfless service for the cause of health, humanitarian needs, and social welfare. The Youth Red Cross stands as a vibrant movement, inspiring young minds to become responsible citizens and ambassadors of peace, service, and humanitarian values.

Youth are widely recognized as the pillars and future leaders of our nation. It is our moral duty to instil in them strong human values and a sense of social responsibility, so they can contribute meaningfully to the betterment of society. With their energy, enthusiasm, and dedication, young people hold immense potential. When guided in the right direction, this vibrant force can bring about remarkable positive change for the growth and welfare of humanity.

The Youth Red Cross wing of Jagannath University, Delhi NCR, Bahadurgarh, Haryana has actively enhanced its efforts to inspire students to take part in community service, health and hygiene promotion, awareness campaigns, and humanitarian outreach. By participating in these activities, students gain values of empathy, teamwork, discipline, and service to humanity. To promote a positive environment for the holistic development of youth physically, morally, and intellectually the YRC of the University organizes various extracurricular activities. These initiatives help instil national values and contribute to building a healthier and stronger nation. The Youth Red Cross Movement thus represents a bridge between youthful energy and national service, fostering a generation committed to peace, compassion, and holistic social development.

Motto of Youth Red Cross:

- To inspire a spirit of service, duty, dedication, and devotion among the youth.
- To promote friendship and harmony among all, without any discrimination.
- To encourage community service through education and practical training.
